This 5 bedroom 3 1/2 bath historic home was built in the mid-late 1800's and is located at 720 6th Street in Boonville, Missouri. The Italianate style brick home features a brilliant grand entry with a framed porch supported by cylindrical columns. The home is situated on a 98x180' lot with alley access on two sides. The main level of the home contains nearly 2000 square feet of living area. The entire home is just over 4000 square feet. The home opens into a large cozy sitting room with a large bay windows and a marble fireplace. Off of the sitting room lies the formal dining room which opens into the kitchen outfitted with a unique retro style. The main level of the home also features 1 bedroom with outside access, a spacious laundry room, a 1/2 bath and an addition sitting room with a brick front fireplace. Two staircases lead to the upstairs of the home where the master bedroom is located as well as 2 additional bedrooms and 1 full bath. The upstairs features hardwood floors and spacious rooms. The master bedroom features a picture window and a full bathroom as well as a large amount of closet space. The upstairs also features a large hall closet for additional storage. The lower level of the home is partially finished and has outside access. There is a sizable family room with a brick front fireplace, a kitchenette and an additional bedroom with full bathroom. The unfinished portion of the basement provides additional storage. The home also has a concrete balcony off of the main level of the back side of the home which creates a covered patio on the basement level. This home adds to the architectural unity of the block and has local historical significance.
